Comments from the public review #1 of the DITA 1.3 specification

This page contains information about the comments that were received on the dita-comment and DITA TC e-mail lists during the 30-day review of DITA 1.3. It also includes information about comments from the OASIS Technical Advisory Board (TAB) members.

A status of "Completed" in the Disposition column indicates that the editor has implemented the changes that the TC decided on, which are outlined in the Response column.

						term "must" when it improved reading comprehension.
c031	6 August	Patrick Durusau	SHOULD vs. should keywords	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1265	7 August	Accepted [KJE and RDA] Reviewed all usages of lower-case "should". Reworded several that could have been confused for normative uses; confirmed others are intentionally lower case non-normative use. Many left as-is without any wording change are word-for-word matches with the previous version of DITA, and are intentionally left alone to avoid any changes to existing implementations.	[KJE and RDA] Completed c032	6 August	Patrick Durusau	MAY vs. may keywords	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1266	7 August	Accepted [KJE] Reviewed every instance of "may" and "may not". Changing to "might," "might not", "can", and "cannot" in order to reduce any confusion with normative terminology. Not touching usages of the terms in non-normative content	[KJE and TM]: Completed such as code samples that contain narrative prose.

c033	6 August	Patrick Durusau	MUST NOT vs must not keywords	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1267	7 August	Accepted [KJE and RDA] Reviewed every instance of "must not." Changed wording to avoid potential confusion with normative terms.	[KJE]: Completed
c034	6 August	Patrick Durusau	SHOULD NOT vs. should not keywords	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1268	7 August	Accepted [KJE and RDA] Reviewed every instance of "should not". Open questions about two instances (abstract and @processing role) that we want to bring to Chet Ensign. Talked to Chet Ensign, who confirmed that our approach was reasonable.	[KJE] Completed

In no way does an implementation need to support MathML or SVG in order to be a	[KJE] Completed conforming DITA implementation. Nor does a conforming DITA document need to use RNG or XSD. Should we simply make these non-normative references? Moved all but XML, RFC-2119, RFC-3986, and RFC-5646 to non-normative reference topic. c036	6 August	Patrick Durusau	W3C Citations in Normative References	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1270	7 August	Not applicable [RDA] Both normative and non-normative references for W3C updated to use W3C citation format before Jira bug was opened.	[RDA] Completed c037	7 August	Patrick Durusau	Non-normative W3C references out-dated	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1271	7 August	Accepted [KJE] Note to Anderson and Kimber: The TC first compiled these topics about normative and non-normative references for DITA 1.2. Is there a reason that we list older standards? Should we consider updating them? Reviewed by Anderson,	[KJE] Completed

c038	7 August	Patrick Durusau	Inconsistent sub-section numbering	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1272	7 August	Rejected [KJE] The DITA TC does not number sections or definition lists in topic. Numbering is reserved for topics only. This is a rather fundamental principal of DITA.	No changes required.
c040	7 August	Patrick Durusau	Organization of lists is non-alphabetical	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1273	7 August	Deferred [KJE] This is a legacy issue. As we have added new content to the spec, we are careful to list elements or attributes in alphabetical order -- especially for any topics that function as quick references. (The topic that you mention in the Jira bug is not a quick reference.) This is on our back log for correction in future releases of DITA.	No changes required c041	7 August	Patrick Durusau	Capitalize section headings according to standard rules for professional publications	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1274	7 August	Rejected [KJE] We use the IBM Style Guide as our style "bible". It mandates sentence-style	No changes required.

			capitalization for all but the topmost title; this has been standard industry practice for many technical publications for at least the last 15 years.
c043	7 August	Patrick Durusau	Inconsistent numbering for examples	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1275	7 August	Rejected [KJE] The DITA TC does not number sections of topic; only topics themselves.	No changes required.
c044	7 August	Patrick Durusau	Lack of consistent cross-references to elements, attributes and values	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1276	7 August	Deferred [KJE] Will add this to the back log of items to consider for DITA 2.0.	No changes required.
c045	7 August	Patrick Durusau	RFC Citations in 1.3 Normative References	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1277	7 August	Accepted [KJE] Agree	[KJE] Completed
c046	7 August	Patrick Durusau	Inadequate definition of conformance targets for DITA processors	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1278	7 August	Deferred [KJE and RDA] While we would prefer a clear list of conformance items, our past clause and past content make it impractical for 1.3. Personally we'd like to start the 2.0 process with a focus on conformance items, and let the DITA 2.0 content flow from that.	No changes required.

c047	7 August	Patrick Durusau	Conformance should require validity against DTD/Schema	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1279	7 August	Rejected [RDA] The current language is intentional. DITA documents may conform to specialized grammar files that are not part of the spec; provided those grammar files conform, the content will also conform. Similarly, an explicit DTD/Schema reference is not required for validity, documents can be (and have been) exchanged or used after removing the reference, provided they comply with spec rules by making attributes such as @class explicit.	No changes required c048	7 August	Jacques Durand	COnformance targets need better up-front definitions	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1280	7 August	Deferred [KJE and RDA] We'll work on this when we redo the conformance topic for DITA 2.0 (the next expected release). We feel that we are limited in what we can change in 1.3 based on the content that existed before, the previous conformance clause that was generally even less explicit, and our	No changes required committment to backwards compatibility with 1.2.

c049	7 August	Jacques Durand	Might choose/need not	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1281	7 August	Accepted partially Recast wording to remove instances of "might choose". Examined all instances of "need not" to confirm that they were correct and appropriate. The one "must" that you suggested should be MUST is in an example; we are very careful to NOT include normative content in non-normative items such as examples or notes.	[KJE] Completed c050	7 August	Jacques Durand	Hanging paragraphs	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1282	7 August	Rejected [KJE]This violates many DITA conventions and best practises. We try to have our spec source be "best in breed". [RDA] We think this refers to the fact that the HTML topics are generated with short parent topics, and main content in linked child topics. This is a common best practice with DITA	No changes required content, and will be familiar to DITA users and spec implementors. We are using this common DITA practice rather than chunking entire sections into single HTML files.

c051	7 August	Jacques Durand	Duplication of Conformance clauses	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1283	7 August	Deferred [KJE and RDA] We considered putting it in Part 0, but worry it would get lost/nobody would read it because they will use the specific packages. Will try to come up with a better or more obvious organization for DITA 2.0.	No changes required c052	7 August	Jacques Durand	referencing to normative content/sections should be more precise in conformance clause	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1284	7 August	Deferred [KJE] We'll work on this when we redo the conformance topic for DITA 2.0.	No changes required
c053	7 August	Jacques Durand	Conformance requirement for the wrong conformance target	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse /TAB-1285	7 August	Accepted [KJE and RDA] Changed paragraph to read "If using non-DITA-conforming grammar files for conforming DITA documents, those	[KJE] Completed grammar files MUST NOT be structured in a way that affects the ability of processors to process those documents. The use of non-conforming document types or schemas might impede interchange or interoperation of those documents with tools that expect or require the use of conforming DITA document types or schemas."

c054	7 August	Jacques Durand	When there are conformance options, the Conformance section should summarize these and make it clear a conformance claim should include them	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1286	7 August	Deferred [KJE and RDA] We'll work on this when we redo the conformance topic for DITA 2.0 (the next expected release). We feel that we are limited in what we can change in 1.3 based on the content that existed before, the previous conformance clause that was generally even less explicit, and our commitment to backwards compatibility with 1.2. 	August	Durand	instances	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1287		[KJE] We consistently and carefully use might when we do not want to convey permission or conformance. c056	7 August	Jacques Durand	need? - 242 instances	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1288	7 August	Rejected [KJE and RDA] In the instance you highlight, the grammar file control what is possible. Common practice is to repeat the element; we are making it clear that other uses are possible (and perhaps better) in certain circumstances. We have much information in the spec that conveys best practices for authors and practitioners. We have been very careful to NOT use normative language to describe markup rules that are controlled by the	No changes required grammar files.

c057	7 August	Jacques Durand	can? - 1129 instances	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1289	7 August	Rejected [KJE and RDA] No, the "can" used in the portion of the spec is a simple statement of fact. As with "might", can is very often used to highlight what is possible, not what is permissible. In the case that is highlighted, the text is overview text stating a basic introductory fact about key scopes; keys scopes, as a feature, provide a way that you can have one key mean different things in different contexts.	No changes required c058	7 August	Jacques Durand	Conformance language is weak and vague at times	https://issues.oasis-open.org/browse/TAB-1290	7 August	Deferred [KJE and RDA] We'll work on this when we redo the conformance topic for DITA 2.0 (the next expected release).
